Monday

READ: James 1:2-12

REFLECT: We often try to run from our trials rather than leaning into them. Trials are tests that teach us to trust in God. When we possess this perspective during our trials, we will focus on Jesus and the prize that comes through testing.

RESPOND: Are you leaning into your trials or running from them? Which reaction do you think is the most beneficial for you long-term?

Tuesday

READ: Deuteronomy 8:2-3

REFLECT: Trials teach dependency on God and separate us from our tendency to live independent from him. We tend to trust in our own abilities and resources to get us through our trials. However, God allows trials to reveal to us the "bread" we try to live on instead of living through his power and resources.

RESPOND: What are some examples of "bread" that you try to depend on during your trials? Have they helped you, or do you find them to overpromise and underdeliver?

Wednesday

READ: 1 Peter 1:6-7

REFLECT: Our trials reveal who we truly place our faith in — God or ourselves. As we grow in our faith during difficult times, we will see that we glorify God in the process. Others can also be drawn to God as a result of our response.

RESPOND: Have others ever told you that they were encouraged in their faith as a result of your response to your trial? If so, how did it encourage you? Have you ever been encouraged in your faith by others' responses to their own trials?

Thursday

READ: Hebrews 13:5-6; Exodus 20:17

REFLECT: Coveting can take place during trials. We look at what we don't have and desire what others have. As a result, our joy is replaced with anxiety, fear, and sadness. We don't look to God and look for the lessons in our pain. God desires for us to know that he is all we need in both our days of pleasure and days of pain.

RESPOND: How have you coveted during your trials? Did it cause you to lose focus on what God wanted to do in your life?

Friday

READ: 1 Peter 4:12-13; Romans 8:28

REFLECT: We are often surprised when trials come. However, because we live in an imperfect world, trials are a norm. We are to expect them so we can stand firm against them when they come. Otherwise, we may be caught off guard and be knocked down.

RESPOND: Has your expectation (or pursuit) of an easy and convenient life caused you to be knocked down when a trial comes? Do you think Christians falsely assume that life will get better the closer they get to God?
