Break the Ice

-It is easy to share about “red flag” in our relationships, but we don’t give as much attention to the “green flags” that mean a lot to us. What are those “green flags” that are important to you in relationships?

Up

-Read 1 Corinthians 6:15-20. What stands out, confuses, or challenges you from this passage or the message?

-Verse 20 calls us to honor God with our bodies. What is the difference in our thinking when our goal is to honor God verses a perspective of simply to not dishonor Him?

-How does viewing marriage as a metaphor for God’s union with His people change or enhance your view of its purpose?

In

-How this question of God and our sexuality/marriage/singleness impacted you and been part of your journey?

-What does it look like for marriage to become an idol within the church or our families?

Out

-Lou Phillips shared that today’s generation does not think that Christianity is “dumb,” they rather think it is “ugly.” What would it look like for Christians to better reflect the beauty of God’s design, especially around the topics like marriage and sex?

-How do we handle questions (sometimes our own questions) in the vein of feeling that following Christ limits our freedom and enjoyment?

Prayer

-Spend time praying as a group for compassion for ourselves and others wrestling with pain in the area of sexuality and relationships.
